

The wheels on the bus go round and round!

Two years ago, the Serving Africa Mission started its Kindergarten on its base in Ghana. Now we have over 20 children and we need a school bus. The roads round our base are very bad and parents who want to use our school are finding it difficult to get to us. This is not unusual in Ghana! Roads are not so good when traveling away from the main highways.

Many schools are able to charge high fees, and this is how they get their equipment, but we are in a very poor area. We charge very low fees, and still try to provide quality education which children in poorer area seldom get. Our Kindergarten is a lovely building- the best we can make it. Our teachers know that as well as education our children need lots and lots of love - and they give it. We have become a happy school.

We are a Christian school. We have a weekly service in the Church on our base, and Jesus is central to our life. But in a multi faith area we welcome children from any background. We have Muslim children, and their Parents know our beliefs and are willing to send their children to us. We consider this a great vote of confidence in how we behave and what we offer.

Now we want to reach more parents, and this is where our bus comes in.
